Introducing Catalog Explorer

What is Catalog Explorer?

- It's a new way to search The Catalog

How do I use Catalog Explorer?

- Start with a keyword and click Search
- Use the word cloud on the left to add additional search terms
- Use the Refine on the right to narrow your search
- Click the title for more information, to find a copy, or place a request

Top 10 Reasons to use Catalog Explorer

1) You can start with a broad keyword search and narrow your search with just a few clicks using Refine.

2) Not sure how to spell what you're looking for? Check the spelling variations in the word cloud on your left – you're likely to find the correct spelling there.

3) Not sure the exact wording of a title? Catalog Explorer will also find variations of and words that sound like your search term.

4) Know the author's last name, but can't remember their full name? Search for the last name, and the Author tab on the left will list all the authors in The Catalog with that last name.

5) Interested in what's new? Refine your query by What's New, and see items that are new this week, this month, or the past 2 months.

6) Want to find more items on a subject that you find in your search? Click the Subject link in your results list.

7) Not getting as many results for your search? Use the word cloud to add some related terms, spelling variations, or translations to your search.

8) Looking for items in a certain language? The Language under Refine makes it easy to find items on any topic in any language in The Catalog.

9) Like an author or artist that turns up in your search? Click the author's name to search for more items by that author or artist.

10) Like to use a social network site like Facebook, Delicious, or Twitter? There's a link to save an item on these sites.
