

The worst feeling in the world for a book lover is when you've run out of words to read by a favorite author. What is a bookworm to do when the well runs dry?

Find another well!

If you're too busy to research online or no longer trust your friend's taste after that last book she recommended, then allow the library to put our skills to use! We see hundreds of books every day and can refine our reference powers to select "read-alikes" based on your favorite writers and genres.

We'll select a number of titles you may like and reserve them for you on a timeline that you specify.

Everyone loves a surprise, and now you can find one (or two or three) waiting for you on the shelf!

It's time to meet your match!
